2. The Role and Mandate of Irish Research Council

Established in mid-2012 under the Government's Public Sector Reform Plan, the Irish Research Council ('the Council'), a merger of two former councils (the Irish Research Council for Humanities and Social Sciences, IRCHSS, and the Irish Research Council for Science, Engineering and Technology, IRCSET), is an associated agency of the Department of Education and Skills (DES) and operates under the aegis of the Higher Education Authority (HEA).

The Council was established and mandated to –

Fund excellent research within, and between, all disciplines, and in doing so to enhance Ireland's international reputation as a centre for research and learning.

Support the education and skills development of excellent individual early stage researchers and cultivate agile independent researchers and thinkers, whilst offering a range of opportunities which support diverse career paths.

Enrich the pool of knowledge and expertise available for addressing Ireland's current and future challenges, whether societal, cultural or economic, and deliver for citizens through collaboration and enabling knowledge exchange with government departments and agencies, enterprise and civic society.

3 Background to the European Social Survey

The European Social Survey (ESS) is an academically-driven social survey that employs the most rigorous methodologies. Nine rounds have taken place to date and over 30 countries have participated in at least one round and most of these are expected to take part in round ten.

The principal long-term aim of the project is to chart and explain the interaction between Europe's changing institutions, its political and economic structures, and the attitudes, beliefs and behaviour patterns of its diverse populations. But an equally important shorter-term aim is to develop and demonstrate an approach to the conduct of rigorous quantitative multinational social surveys in Europe, which matches that of the best national surveys in Europe and the USA. The data and other outputs are freely available to the research and policy communities throughout Europe and beyond via www.europeansocialsurvey.org. Now that the ESS biennial time-series has built survey upon survey, it is starting to provide a unique long-term account of change and development in the social fabric of modern Europe. In addition, it will help to activate research networks across Europe and the participation of young researchers in the substance and methodology of rigorous comparative research.

Through the ESFRI roadmap process, the Irish Research Council identified the ESS as a priority infrastructure project for the Social Sciences and has funded projects for Ireland's participation in previous rounds of the survey. The Irish Research Council now invites applications for a national coordinator to oversee and implement round ten of the survey.

The project is directed by a Core Scientific Team or Central Co-ordination Team (CCT) led by Rory Fitzgerald from the Centre for Comparative Social Surveys at City University London, UK. The seven other institutions represented are: NSD, Norway, GESIS, Germany, The Netherlands Institute for Social Research/SCP, Netherlands, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Spain, University of Leuven, Belgium, University of Ljubljana, Slovenia and the University of Essex, UK. For more details, see <http://www.europeansocialsurvey.org>

The CCT will be supported by a number of advisory and consultative groups, principal among which is a Scientific Advisory Board (SAB) under the chairmanship of Professor Jacqueline Scott and consisting of ten members appointed by the General Assembly following nominations from its members. The CCT also has at its disposal expert advisory panels on methodological and translation issues. Separate questionnaire design teams have been selected by a competitive process to help frame the variable elements for this sweep of the questionnaire.

The coordination of this first phase of the ESS project is again being financed by a grant from the European Commission (under its Framework Programme), supplemented by a grant from the Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC) in the UK. The European Science Foundation (ESF) covers the costs of scientific liaison. Each national survey and coordinator is funded by an appropriate national research agency. In the case of Ireland, the Irish Research Council has agreed to take on this role for round ten of the survey.

There is also a Funders' Forum, at which the various funding agencies, including Irish Research Council, are represented.

Further information about the ESS may be found at <http://www.europeansocialsurvey.org>

In the case that the corresponding ESS grant terminates earlier than scheduled, or is moved to any other host institution, funds may be reclaimed on a pro-rata basis.

The Irish Research Council attaches considerable importance to procedures for monitoring and renewing its awards. Funding will be dependent on the demonstration of sufficient progress through regular written reports. Please see table below for information on progress report due dates. These progress and final reports are evaluated by the Irish Research Council Projects Review Committee. Templates for these written reports will be provided at the appropriate times by the Irish Research Council. It is the responsibility of the ESS National Coordinator (NC) holder, to ensure that reports are filed by the due dates.

Failure to file these reports by the required dates or submission of an unsatisfactory report may result in the Irish Research Council terminating an award. In the event of such funding being reduced or discontinued, neither the Department Education and Skills nor the Irish Research Council will be under any liability to provide funding or to compensate an ESS NC or their host institution for any reduction or cessation of such funding.
- 4.15 Should an ESS NC recognised under this Scheme be unable for any reason (including medical reasons) to pursue his/her project in accordance with the Terms and Conditions of the Scheme, he/she must inform the Director of the Irish Research Council within two weeks of such a situation coming to his/her attention. In such situations, the Irish Research Council will have regard to the usual conventions of the host institution. However, given the basis on which awards are made, the Irish Research Council reserves the right to withdraw funding support.
- 4.16 The Irish Research Council recognises that, for personal or professional reasons, an ESS awardee recognised under this Scheme may wish to terminate his/her award. This should not be done without prior consultation with the Irish Research Council, as it may involve reimbursement by the host institution to the Irish Research Council if the use of the funding made available up to the date of termination cannot be justified in accordance with the project's stated objectives.
